

Entertainment

1. Which Looney Tunes character, known for their bright yellow plumage and knack for outwitting the "puddy tat", was originally pink and named Orson?
2. This dashing archaeologist was played by Harrison Ford in the movie franchise, and by Sean Patrick Flanery in the short-lived television series. What cracking good character was this?
3. This simple man was able to take his family from rags to riches due to some lucky hunting. He was played in the television series by Buddy Ebsen, and by Jim Varney in the movie. Who was this man who never really left his simple roots behind?
4. "Ay carumba!", "Eat my shorts" and "Don't have a cow, man", are all trademark quotes of which cartoon character?
5. My name's Peter Parker. In my time, I've been a freelance photographer and graduate student, all the while protecting what precious secret?
6. Former Olympic swimmer Johnny Weissmuller played this swinger in a series of films, and Ron Ely played him on the short lived television series. Christopher Lambert has also played the part on the silver screen, and Tony Goldwyn gave his voice talents to the Disney animated character. Which popular role has seen these, as well as other portrayals?
7. Which Warner Brothers "Looney Tunes" character was billed as "The Fastest Mouse in all Mexico"?
8. This displaced doctor was first portrayed on the silver screen by Donald Sutherland, and then by Alan Alda in the television series. Which mobile surgeon was this?
9. The 1980s comic series "Adolescent Radioactive Black Belt Hamsters" was a parody of what popular series featuring "heroes in a half-shell"?
10. This caped crusader was played by Adam West on the small screen, and covered by such notable actors as Michael Keaton, Val Kilmer, George Clooney and Christian Bale on the silver screen. Which crime fighter has been blessed by these, and so many other, fine interpretations?

1. Tweety Pie
2. Indiana Jones
3. Jed Clampett
4. Bart Simpson
5. I'm Spider-Man
6. Tarzan
7. Speedy Gonzales
8. Hawkeye Pierce
9. Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles
10. Batman