QUESTION	ANSWER	DID YOU KNOW?
1. What weapon does FitzRoyce try to use on the shark?	1. A bang stick	1. 🗣️ Bess Armstrong did many of her own stunts. As Kay Morgan, Bess Armstrong performed a lot of her underwater scenes herself — including time in tanks with live dolphins and large animatronic sharks.
2. What happens to FitzRoyce in the end?	2. Eaten whole by the shark
3. What do Mike and Kay try to repair after FitzRoyce's plan fails?	3. The underwater tunnel	2. 🎵 The score wasn't by John Williams. Unlike the first two films, Jaws 3-D had a score composed by Alan Parker, though it still used a variation of John Williams's iconic theme.
4. What does shutting off the pumps unintentionally allow the shark to do?	4. Escape the pipe	3. 🐟 The animatronic shark malfunctioned — again. Just like in the first Jaws, the mechanical shark often didn't work as intended. This time, it led to reduced screen time and forced the crew to rely more on music and suspense than visuals.
5. Who saves Mike and Kay from the shark in the final encounter?	5. The dolphins
6. What does the shark do to the control room?	6. Smashes through the glass, floods the room	4. 👤 The Brody brothers returned — recast again. This film marked the third time Mike and Sean Brody were recast, continuing the trend of new actors playing them in each sequel — here, Dennis Quaid and John Putsch.
7. What does Mike spot inside the shark's mouth during its attack?	7. FitzRoyce's body	5. 🏠 The shark's crash through glass was done with animation. The moment where the shark crashes into the control room was not filmed with practical effects — it was done using digital animation, which looks dated by today's standards but was cutting-edge for the time.
8. What does FitzRoyce's corpse still hold inside the shark?	8. A grenade	6. 🌊 It was filmed in Florida's largest tank. Underwater scenes were shot in Florida's massive water tanks, including those at Universal Studios and Naval diving facilities, to simulate SeaWorld's lagoons.
9. How does Mike use the grenade to kill the shark?	9. Uses a bent pole to pull the pin	7. 💡 Steven Spielberg had nothing to do with it. Though he directed the original Jaws, Spielberg had no involvement in Jaws 3-D and reportedly disliked the direction the franchise had taken.
10. Who survives and celebrates at the end?	10. Mike, Kay, and the dolphins	8. 🎁 Despite reviews, it made money. Jaws 3-D was a box office success, earning over $80 million worldwide, proving the Jaws name still had drawing power — even in 3D.
11. What is the setting for this film (name the park)?	11. SeaWorld Orlando
12. Who dies trying to save others with a failed plan involving a grenade?	12. Philip FitzRoyce
