Did You Know?

- Thunderball is the fourth film in the James Bond series, starring Sean Connery as 007.
- The film was directed by Terence Young, who also directed Dr. No and From Russia with Love.
- The screenplay was written by Richard Maibaum and John Hopkins, based on Ian Fleming's novel.
- Thunderball is the first Bond film to feature an underwater battle sequence as a major plot point.
- The movie introduced the character Emilio Largo, played by Adolfo Celi, as one of the most memorable Bond villains.
- Claudine Auger played the Bond girl Domino Derval; she was a French actress and former Miss France runner-up.
- The film's iconic score, including the theme song, was composed by John Barry, with the song "Thunderball" performed by Tom Jones.
- It was the first Bond film to be filmed in widescreen Panavision.
- The movie's underwater scenes were filmed in the Bahamas, requiring extensive use of scuba gear and underwater choreography.
- Thunderball was originally supposed to star David Niven as Bond in a 1950s film adaptation, but that project was canceled.
- The production faced legal issues due to a dispute over film rights with Kevin McClory, one of the co-writers of the original novel.
- Sean Connery was paid a then-record $1 million for his role as James Bond in Thunderball.
- The film was a massive commercial success, grossing over $141 million worldwide, making it the highest-grossing Bond film at the time.
- Thunderball features one of the earliest appearances of the Aston Martin DB5 in the series, though it was mostly used for brief sequences.
- The underwater scenes required new camera rigs and techniques, which influenced future action films.
- Largo's henchman, Fiona Volpe, was portrayed by Italian actress Luciana Paluzzi.
- The film popularized the concept of Bond using gadgets in his spy missions, including an explosive jet pack.
- A key plot point involves the theft of two nuclear warheads by SPECTRE, highlighting Cold War fears of the era.
- Director Terence Young insisted on using real explosions rather than models for several action sequences.
- The famous opening sequence shows Bond being attacked on the beach by enemy agents, a classic Bond formula of the era.
- Thunderball was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Visual Effects.
- The production used over 100 divers for some of the underwater battle sequences.
- The film helped cement Sean Connery as an international superstar.
- Domino's brother, François Derval, is killed early in the movie, giving her a personal vendetta against Largo.
- Thunderball was remade and reimagined as Never Say Never Again in 1983, with Sean Connery reprising Bond due to legal rights issues.
