Did You Know?

-  You Only Live Twice is the fifth James Bond film, starring Sean Connery as 007.
-  The film was directed by Lewis Gilbert, who also directed Moonraker and Alfie.
-  The screenplay was written by Roald Dahl, the famous author of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory.
-  The story is set mostly in Japan, featuring Tokyo, Kyoto, and the iconic Mount Fuji.
-  Ernst Stavro Blofeld, played by Donald Pleasence, makes his first full appearance in the series.
-  Blofeld's signature white cat became one of the most iconic villain trademarks in film history.
-  The film revolves around SPECTRE's plan to provoke global war by hijacking spacecraft.
-  The production used real Japanese locations as well as elaborate sets, including the famous volcano lair.
-  The volcano lair set was one of the largest and most complex sets ever built for a Bond film at the time.
-  Sean Connery's Bond drives a red Toyota 2000GT in the movie, a car specially modified for stunt purposes.
-  Although underwater sequences were a staple, You Only Live Twice focused more on aerial and land stunts.
-  The movie features a memorable ninja fight scene with Japanese martial artists.
-  The theme song "You Only Live Twice" was performed by Nancy Sinatra.
-  John Barry composed the film's score, one of his most memorable contributions to the series.
-  The film helped popularize ninjas in Western pop culture.
-  The climactic battle at the volcano lair used hundreds of extras and elaborate miniatures for explosions.
-  The movie includes a rocket hijacking sequence, showing Bond piloting a helicopter in action scenes.
-  SPECTRE's plan involves stealing American and Soviet spacecraft to start a war, reflecting Cold War fears.
-  Bond wears a traditional Japanese kimono during one scene to blend in with the locals.
-  The film's special effects team innovated pyrotechnics for the volcano explosion finale.
-  You Only Live Twice received an Academy Award nomination for Best Visual Effects.
-  Japanese culture is heavily featured, including gardens, ceremonies, and traditional clothing.
-  Mie Hama plays Kissy Suzuki, the main Bond girl, and learned some Japanese for her role.
-  The film introduced elaborate secret base designs, influencing future spy and sci-fi films.
-  You Only Live Twice marked the first time Bond films extensively used miniatures and optical effects to create large-scale destruction sequences.
