One for the Bar!

1. 🧑‍🤝‍🧑 The pair originally ran a "murder mystery coach tour" — which is about as sensible as opening a shark-petting zoo.
2. 🐱 Lisa Kudrow performed Smelly Cat live with Taylor Swift in 2015 — proving the feline still has nine lives.
3. 🏥 Many storylines were based on real medical cases... just with 300% more hallucinations and musical numbers.
4. 🏹 GLOW stands for "Gorgeous Ladies of Wrestling" — and yes, it was inspired by a very real 1980s promotion.
5. 🇬🇧 The Malia setting reportedly boosted tourism... though perhaps not the reputation of British lads abroad.
6. 🍷 Frasier appeared in more episodes of Cheers than some original bar staff — talk about overstaying your welcome.
7. 🚗 Nicholas Lyndhurst was just 21 when the show began — Rodney's "plonker" years started early.
8. 🐀 Naming the rat Basil was Manuel's subtle act of rebellion.
9. 🦸 Jerry Seinfeld is a lifelong Superman fan — there's even a Superman figurine in his apartment set.
10. 🏠 The town is fictional but loosely inspired by the creators' hometown of Littleton, Colorado.
11. 🏰 It was actually filmed in the Buckinghamshire village of Turville — TV geography at its finest.
12. 🥨 René's café is possibly the only place where hiding priceless paintings in sausages feels completely logical.
