ONE FOR THE BAR!

12 DID YOU KNOWS ABOUT THE FILM COYOTE UGLY

1 The real-life inspiration for the film came from the famous Coyote Ugly bar founded in New York City by Liliana "Lil" Lovell.

2 LeAnn Rimes recorded several songs for the soundtrack, including "Can't Fight the Moonlight," which became a massive international hit.

3 Actress Piper Perabo had to learn bar-top dancing and bottle-flipping for her role as Violet Sanford.

4 Although Piper Perabo plays an aspiring singer-songwriter in the film, most of the singing vocals were actually performed by LeAnn Rimes.

5 The title "Coyote Ugly" comes from a slang expression describing waking up next to someone after a wild night and wanting to "gnaw your arm off like a coyote in a trap" to escape without waking them.

6 Tyra Banks made her feature film debut in Coyote Ugly as bartender Zoe.

7 The movie helped popularise flair bartending and bar-top dancing in mainstream pop culture during the early 2000s.

8 The soundtrack for Coyote Ugly sold millions of copies worldwide and became almost as famous as the film itself.

9 Even though the story is set mainly in New York, many scenes were actually filmed in California and New Jersey.

10 Producer Jerry Bruckheimer wanted the film to feel like a modern rock-and-country fairy tale.

11 The bartenders in the film were encouraged to create their own dance styles and performance routines during rehearsals.

12 "Can't Fight the Moonlight" became one of the biggest songs of 2000 and is still strongly associated with Coyote Ugly today.
