ONE FOR THE BAR!

1. 🏆 Paul Scofield won the Oscar for the role — not bad for making Tudor legal arguments look gripping.
2. 🐼 Benicio Del Toro already had the brooding stare sorted, which is half the battle in any serious revolutionary biopic.
3. 🚗 Topher Grace was so far from That '70s Show here, the Forman basement may never recover.
4. 🦇 Cillian Murphy's performance involved haunted staring, cigarette smoke and cheekbones doing overtime.
5. 👑 Marie Antoinette probably never said "Let them eat cake" — but she definitely knew how to make a film look expensive.
6. 🎵 Kingsley Ben-Adir had the tough job of playing a man whose voice, image and music are recognised worldwide.
7. 📖 Russell Crowe went from Roman arena to university chalkboard — still intense, just with fewer swords.
8. 🍷 Naomi Ackie played Whitney Houston in I Wanna Dance with Somebody, which is also what half the pub will want after round three.
9. 🎤 Val Kilmer did his own singing in the film, which is either brave or showing off — probably both.
10. 🏆 Spike Lee won his first competitive Oscar for co-writing BlackKkKlansman.
11. 🗺️ Hispania roughly covered modern Spain and Portugal, so Maximus was basically the ancient world's most intense Iberian export.
12. 💧 Erin Brockovich helped turn legal paperwork, contaminated water and sheer stubbornness into proper Hollywood drama.
