

1. The Mercury Music Prize in 2005 didn't just reward an album — it rewarded a name that sounded more like a support group than a band. Which unusual outfit actually won the prize?
2. If you like his body, and you think he's sexy, who exactly are you supposed to let know?
3. Otis Redding sings that "young girls, they do get wearied" right near the start of which soul-drenched classic?
4. "Into the Groove" became the very first UK No. 1 hit for which pop superstar?
5. According to The Buggles, what exactly "killed the radio star"?
6. During the superstar-packed recording of We Are The World, one megastar was meant to be standing right next to Michael Jackson... but mysteriously never showed up. Who was it?
7. While Joan Jett was tearing up the charts in 1988, her former bandmate Lita Ford was doing the same. Before their solo fame, which band did they conquer together?
8. In Jefferson Airplane's psychedelic anthem White Rabbit, who's casually puffing away on a hookah?
9. The Go-Go's hit Our Lips Are Sealed was inspired by a long-distance romance between Jane Wiedlin and an English rock star who sent her poetic letters. Who was the mystery man?
10. In George Clinton's gloriously bonkers Parliament mythology, which flamboyantly named character was portrayed as the ultimate enemy of funk?
11. Long before she became TV royalty as Clair Huxtable, which Village Person was once married to actress Phylicia Rashad?
12. Which Bob Dylan song was recorded by Sheryl Crow a full three years before Dylan released his own version on Love and Theft?

Entertainment – Music

Pot Luck #29

QUESTIONS

1. The Mercury Music Prize in 2005 didn't just reward an album — it rewarded a name that sounded more like a support group than a band. Which unusual outfit actually won the prize?
2. If you like his body, and you think he's sexy, who exactly are you supposed to let know?
3. Otis Redding sings that "young girls, they do get wearied" right near the start of which soul-drenched classic?
4. "Into the Groove" became the very first UK No. 1 hit for which pop superstar?
5. According to The Buggles, what exactly "killed the radio star"?
6. During the superstar-packed recording of We Are The World, one megastar was meant to be standing right next to Michael Jackson... but mysteriously never showed up. Who was it?
7. While Joan Jett was tearing up the charts in 1988, her former bandmate Lita Ford was doing the same. Before their solo fame, which band did they conquer together?
8. In Jefferson Airplane's psychedelic anthem White Rabbit, who's casually puffing away on a hookah?
9. The Go-Go's hit Our Lips Are Sealed was inspired by a long-distance romance between Jane Wiedlin and an English rock star who sent her poetic letters. Who was the mystery man?
10. In George Clinton's gloriously bonkers Parliament mythology, which flamboyantly named character was portrayed as the ultimate enemy of funk?
11. Long before she became TV royalty as Clair Huxtable, which Village Person was once married to actress Phylicia Rashad?
12. Which Bob Dylan song was recorded by Sheryl Crow a full three years before Dylan released his own version on Love and Theft?

ANSWERS

1. Antony and the Johnsons
2. Rod Stewart
3. Try a Little Tenderness
4. Madonna
5. Video
6. Prince
7. The Runaways
8. The Caterpillar
9. Terry Hall
10. Sir Nose D'Voidoffunk
11. Victor Willis
12. Mississippi

ONE FOR THE BAR!

1. 🍷 The band's name confused half the country into expecting guitars and leather — instead they delivered fragile, emotional art-pop and a Mercury win.
2. 🗨️ One of pop's boldest chat-up lines — the musical equivalent of a wink, a grin, and absolutely no shame.
3. 💣 The song starts smooth and slow, then turns into one of the most explosive vocal performances ever committed to tape.
4. 🇬🇧 One of Madonna's biggest UK hits never even got a proper single release in the US — rules are optional when you're Madonna.
5. 📺 The song famously launched MTV — proving pop music predicted its own makeover before anyone else did.
6. 🎤 Prince reportedly refused to appear unless he could have a solo line — and when that didn't happen, he stayed away entirely. Diva move? Absolutely.
7. 🎸 The band also featured Cherie Currie — basically a punk-rock conveyor belt of future legends.
8. 🐉 Straight out of Alice in Wonderland — because nothing says 1960s rock like literary drugs metaphors.
9. 💬 Hall later turned the song into a duet — awkward if you're the ex writing about keeping secrets.
10. 🕒 Sir Nose's ultimate crime was refusing to dance — a punishable offence in George Clinton's funk-fuelled universe.
11. 🧑 Victor Willis didn't just play the cop — he later became a major advocate for artists reclaiming copyright to their own songs.
12. 🎵 Dylan recorded Mississippi several times, but many fans still reckon Sheryl Crow got there first — and smoother.

