THE MIST

DID YOU KNOWS!

1

The Mist was based on Stephen King's famous 1980 novella of the same name — but the TV series created an entirely new storyline and characters rather than directly adapting the original plot.

2

The terrifying mist in the series was designed to reflect people's fears and paranoia as much as the physical monsters lurking inside it.

3

The show originally aired on Spike TV in 2017, shortly before the channel rebranded itself as Paramount Network.

4

Horror legend Stephen King publicly gave the series his approval before it premiered, despite it taking a very different direction from his novella.

5

Although the story takes place in Bridgeville, Maine, much of the series was filmed in Nova Scotia, Canada, helping create the show's eerie small-town atmosphere.

6

Unlike the 2007 film adaptation, the TV version focused more heavily on psychological horror and cult-like behaviour between survivors.

7

The producers deliberately kept many of the creatures hidden in shadows or fog to make the horror feel more mysterious and unsettling.

8

Several scenes were inspired by classic survival horror films where characters become trapped indoors while danger waits outside.

9

Morgan Spector, who played Kevin Copeland, performed many of his own intense action scenes throughout the series.

10

The show explored themes of fear, religion, mob mentality, and isolation just as much as supernatural horror.

11

Stephen King's original novella was first published in the anthology collection Dark Forces before becoming one of his most famous horror stories.

12

Despite ending on a major cliffhanger, The Mist was cancelled after just one season.
