ONE FOR THE BAR!

1. 📺 Roy Cropper's imprisonment became one of the biggest talking points in recent Coronation Street history, with many fans campaigning for Weatherfield's kindest resident to be freed.
2. 💣 The infamous Moldovan wedding massacre ended Dynasty's fifth season with nearly every major character's fate left hanging, making it one of television's greatest cliffhangers.
3. 🏥 Doctors aired more than 4,500 episodes over 24 years before ending in 2024, making it one of the BBC's longest-running daytime dramas.
4. 🎭 Ryan Thomas and Tina O'Brien's daughter, Scarlett Thomas, has followed in her parents' footsteps by pursuing an acting career.
5. 📺 Phil Redmond transformed British television twice—first with the gritty realism of Brookside, then by creating the youth-focused phenomenon Hollyoaks14.
6. 🍷 Peggy Mitchell's legendary catchphrase, "Get outta my pub!", became one of the most quoted lines in British television history.
7. 🌞 Eldorado was filmed on a purpose-built Spanish set costing millions of pounds, but despite the investment it lasted for just one year.
8. 🏠 The Sharma family became Emmerdale's first long-running British-Asian family, with Rishi running the village sweet factory and his relatives becoming central to village life.
9. 🎭 Joanna Lumley appeared in just eight episodes of Coronation Street in 1973. Producers later hoped to bring Elaine Perkins back, but when Lumley was unavailable, they created a completely new character instead.
10. 🎬 Ryan Prescott is one of the few actors to appear in three major British soaps, playing Flynn Buchanan in Emmerdale, Liam Slade in Doctors, before joining Coronation Street as Ryan Connor in 2018.
11. 📰 The Kabin has been selling newspapers, sweets and Weatherfield gossip since the 1960s, making it one of the most recognisable shops on the cobbles.
12. ⭐ Pat Phoenix played Elsie Tanner for 24 years, becoming one of the original stars who helped make Coronation Street the world's longest-running television soap produced by a single broadcaster.
